School of Management

Overview

Like all major institutions of higher learning, Purdue University's Krannert School of Management exists for the discovery, preservation and dissemination of knowledge. That purpose is reflected in a deep commitment to scholarship that inspires both the creation and the critical evaluation of new ideas and insights through the daily interaction of the school's faculty and students in the classroom, laboratory and library.

The school's academic programs are devised to prepare students for lives of active and productive citizenship. To that end, those programs begin with a solid foundation of classwork in the arts, sciences and mathematics intended to develop a rigorous, analytical cast of mind, a wide intellectual curiosity and an appreciation for the breadth and diversity of the means by which we come to understand our world.

Rising out of that foundation in the junior and senior years is a demanding professional education designed to further sharpen the student's analytical and decision-making abilities through exposure to the challenges confronted by the various management functions of finance, production, marketing, human resources, strategic planning, management information systems and related areas. It is this core of analytical, often mathematically based, instruction in the latest principles of management and quantitative methods that is the hallmark of management education at Purdue. In advanced classes, frequent discussion of carefully chosen case studies helps students to gain facility in the application of these principles within a broad range of management contexts.

Finally, students find numerous opportunities to meet and talk with management professionals from a wide variety of companies and firms. This interaction, together with the insights gained in the classroom, is intended to develop an appreciation for, and a sensitivity to, the high standards of professional and ethical conduct that must be maintained by leaders in all fields.

Advising

Each student has an assigned academic advisor. Students meet with their advisors at least once a semester. Advisors mentor and coach students in the Launching Business Leaders competencies and portfolio. Advisors are happy to answer questions, refer students to appropriate resources, and help them achieve their goals.

School of Management Administration and Instruction

Management Overview

Management majors mean business. They effectively lead, coordinate and communicate innovative solutions in all aspects of an organization from operations to human resources. They are adaptable leaders with strong roots in analytics, complemented by solid communication skills that help them compete in the business world.

A multi-functional approach to coursework allows you to discover different business areas at the same time like finance, strategy, law and organizational behavior. You'll refine your critical thinking, communication and analytical skills as you explore these different aspects of business. Students can add concentration areas to focus on specific interests.

Graduate pursue many different job opportunities. Some begin in corporate management rotational programs, as account executives or as project managers. You will find Krannert management graduates in companies like Boeing, General Motors, Amazon.com, and Target Corporation.

About the Economics Program

Welcome to Purdue University's Department of Economics. The Department, located in the Krannert School of Management, has a long tradition of excellence in research and teaching. Economics faculty members are leaders in their respective fields. The Economics Department offers both undergraduate and graduate degree programs. For undergraduates students, the Department offers two Baccalaureate degrees, a Bachelor of Science (BS) degree in Economics through the Management School and a Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree through the College of Liberal Arts. Accounting, BS

About the Program

Accounting Accountants help businesses and organizations solve problems and succeed in a rapidly changing, globally competitive environment. Our graduates join a network of Purdue alumni who hold important positions in organizations around the world. For example, Beth Brooke-Marciniak, CPA and Global Vice Chair - Public Policy at EY, has once again been named to the Forbes List of 100 Most Powerful Women. Our graduates place nationally with Big 4 accounting firms, regional public accounting firms, Fortune 1000 companies, consulting firms, small corporations, not-for-profits and government agencies across the U.S. and internationally.

Four Outstanding Programs:

- Our undergraduate accounting major is a 120 credit hour program that provides students with the foundation for successful careers in accounting and business or for graduate study.
- Our Certificate of Advanced Accountancy program adds a 5th year to the undergraduate accounting major and puts students on an educationally sound path to the 150 credit hours needed to take the Uniform CPA exam in most states.
- Our Masters of Science (Accounting) degree is a two-semester, 30 credit hour program that features a flexible curriculum with field consulting opportunities with start-ups and non-profits. Students tailor their coursework to their career goals while becoming CPA-exam ready.
- Our Ph.D Program in Accounting prepares students for careers as researchers and teachers. Our graduates have published their research in top accounting journals and are recognized for their rigorous analytical training.

While studying at Purdue, accounting students have ample opportunities for professional development and networking through student organizations sponsored by the Accounting Area. The Accounting Area is committed to Purdue's mission of creating and disseminating knowledge. Over the last several years, our faculty members and recent Ph.D. graduates publish their research in top academic journals and present it conferences around the world.

Finance, BS

About the Program

Finance is the study of wealth and assets, typically money, of a person or a corporation. You will discover what "the time value of money" means, how to manage corporate cash flow and how to effectively allocate resources.

You will study investment management, financial analytic tools and corporate forecasting. After taking accounting and economics, you'll begin to analyze money in different ways to answer questions like: How do multinational corporations account for currency exchanges? When you are buying another company, how do you decide how much it is worth? What is involved when companies have their Initial Public Offering?

A range of opportunities are available to start your career in Finance. Graduates can start out as financial analysts in large corporations looking at the bottom line and predicting profits. Other opportunities exist in a fast-paced financial leadership development programs or investment banking.

Summary of Program Requirements

The Summary of Program Requirements for Finance is a comprehensive list of those categories which a student must fulfill in order to earn their degree. Unlike the full Detailed Program Requirements listed below, complete lists of selectives for any given category are not shown. Industrial Management/Analytical Consulting, BSIM

About the Program

Industrial Management students are multi-talented. With a specialized business focus, students can forecast company growth and talk numbers in the board room as well as solve logistical problems in business operations. This flexibility has shown greater opportunity and faster upward mobility within organizations than most other business majors.

Industrial Management students combine rigorous courses in math, science, and business to sharpen strong analytic, business and technical skills. A dedication to continually learning - new processes, technology and skills - is a hallmark of an Industrial Management student. Specialties range from technical management areas to science and engineering.

Many Industrial Management graduates begin their careers in corporate leadership development rotational programs, where they gain additional business and technical knowledge. Others start their careers as production supervisors, operations analysts, strategic sourcing analysts or software business analysts.

Students may choose from the following concentrations: Analytical Consulting, Computer Science, Economics, Engineering, Financial Engineering, Management Information Systems, Manufacturing and Service Operations Management, Operations & Supply Chain Management, Quantitative Methods, Statistics and Science (Biology, Chemistry, Math, Physics, and Earth, Atmospheric and Planetary Sciences).

Industrial Management/Computer Science, BSIM

About the Program

Industrial Management students are multi-talented. With a specialized business focus, students can forecast company growth and talk numbers in the board room as well as solve logistical problems in business operations. This flexibility has shown greater opportunity and faster upward mobility within organizations than most other business majors.

Industrial Management students combine rigorous courses in math, science, and business to sharpen strong analytic, business and technical skills. A dedication to continually learning - new processes, technology and skills - is a hallmark of an Industrial Management student. Specialties range from technical management areas to science and engineering.

Many Industrial Management graduates begin their careers in corporate leadership development rotational programs, where they gain additional business and technical knowledge. Others start their careers as production supervisors, operations analysts, strategic sourcing analysts or software business analysts.

Students may choose from the following concentrations: Analytical Consulting, Computer Science, Economics, Engineering, Financial Engineering, Management Information Systems, Manufacturing and Service Operations Management, Operations & Supply Chain Management, Quantitative Methods, Statistics and Science (Biology, Chemistry, Math, Physics, and Earth, Atmospheric and Planetary Sciences).

Industrial Management/Economics, BSIM

About the Program

Industrial Management students are multi-talented. With a specialized business focus, students can forecast company growth and talk numbers in the board room as well as solve logistical problems in business operations. This flexibility has shown greater opportunity and faster upward mobility within organizations than most other business majors.

Industrial Management students combine rigorous courses in math, science, and business to sharpen strong analytic, business and technical skills. A dedication to continually learning - new processes, technology and skills - is a hallmark of an Industrial Management student. Specialties range from technical management areas to science and engineering.

Many Industrial Management graduates begin their careers in corporate leadership development rotational programs, where they gain additional business and technical knowledge. Others start their careers as production supervisors, operations analysts, strategic sourcing analysts or software business analysts.

Students may choose from the following concentrations: Analytical Consulting, Computer Science, Economics, Engineering, Financial Engineering, Management Information Systems, Manufacturing and Service Operations Management, Operations & Supply Chain Management, Quantitative Methods, Statistics and Science (Biology, Chemistry, Math, Physics, and Earth, Atmospheric and Planetary Sciences).

Industrial Management/Financial Engineering, BSIM

About the Program

Industrial Management students are multi-talented. With a specialized business focus, students can forecast company growth and talk numbers in the board room as well as solve logistical problems in business operations. This flexibility has shown greater opportunity and faster upward mobility within organizations than most other business majors.

Industrial Management students combine rigorous courses in math, science, and business to sharpen strong analytic, business and technical skills. A dedication to continually learning -- new processes, technology and skills -- is a hallmark of an Industrial Management student. Specialties range from technical management areas to science and engineering.

Many Industrial Management graduates begin their careers in corporate leadership development rotational programs, where they gain additional business and technical knowledge. Others start their careers as production supervisors, operations analysts, strategic sourcing analysts or software business analysts.

Students may choose from the following concentrations: Analytical Consulting, Computer Science, Economics, Engineering, Financial Engineering, Management Information Systems, Manufacturing and Service Operations Management, Operations & Supply Chain Management, Quantitative Methods, Statistics and Science (Biology, Chemistry, Math, Physics, and Earth, Atmospheric and Planetary Sciences).

Summary of Program Requirements

The Summary of Program Requirements for Industrial Management - Financial Engineering is a comprehensive list of those categories which a student must fulfill in order to earn their degree. Unlike the full Detailed Program Requirements listed below, complete lists of selectives for any given category are not shown. These summaries are intended to be printer-friendly and less expansive in detail.

Detailed Program Requirements

Please see below for detailed program requirements and possible selective fulfillments.

Bachelor of Science in Industrial Management
Major: Financial Engineering
Minimum credit hours: 120

Management Admissions Index Core (MAI)

- To be automatically admitted into upper division, students who have completed all courses in the MAI must have at least a 2.65 MAI GPA and a 2.40 cumulative GPA, have a C- or higher in all MAI and School of Management courses, and may not be on academic probation.
- Requirements for upper division can be found online: <http://www.krannert.purdue.edu/undergraduate/current-students/im/im-req-upper-div.asp>
- MAI courses, or their equivalents, may only be enrolled in two times for a grade.
- A maximum of three MAI courses may be retaken.
- School of Management, MAI, and concentration courses with grades of "F" can only be retaken at Purdue University.
- Both science electives must be completed prior to admission to upper division of Industrial Management

The Summary of Program Requirements for Industrial Management - Manufacturing and Service Operations is a comprehensive list of those categories which a student must fulfill in order to earn their degree. Unlike the full Detailed Program Requirements listed below, complete lists of selectives for any given category are not shown. These summaries are intended to be printer-friendly and less expansive in detail.

Detailed Program Requirements

Please see below for detailed program requirements and possible selective fulfillments.

Bachelor of Science in Industrial Management
Major: Manufacturing and Service Operations Management
Minimum credit hours: 120

Management Admissions Index Core (MAI)

- To be automatically admitted into upper division, students who have completed all courses in the MAI must have at least a 2.65 MAI GPA and a 2.40 cumulative GPA, have a C- or higher in all MAI and School of Management courses, and may not be on academic probation.
- Requirements for upper division can be found online: <http://www.krannert.purdue.edu/undergraduate/current-students/im/im-req-upper-div.asp>

Industrial Management/Operations & Supply Chain Management, BSIM

About the Program

Industrial Management students are multi-talented. With a specialized business focus, students can forecast company growth and talk numbers in the board room as well as solve logistical problems in business operations. This flexibility has shown greater opportunity and faster upward mobility within organizations than most other business majors.

Industrial Management students combine rigorous courses in math, science, and business to sharpen strong analytic, business and technical skills. A dedication to continually learning - new processes, technology and skills - is a hallmark of an Industrial Management student. Specialties range from technical management areas to science and engineering.

Many Industrial Management graduates begin their careers in corporate leadership development rotational programs, where they gain additional business and technical knowledge. Others start their careers as production supervisors, operations analysts, strategic sourcing analysts or software business analysts.

Students may choose from the following concentrations: Analytical Consulting, Computer Science, Economics, Engineering, Financial Engineering, Management Information Systems, Manufacturing and Service Operations Management, Operations & Supply Chain Management, Quantitative Methods, Statistics and Science (Biology, Chemistry, Math, Physics, and Earth, Atmospheric and Planetary Sciences).

Any course without a link to its description is one that has been expired. However, this course could fulfill the degree requirement historically.

Industrial Management/Science, BSIM

About the Program

Industrial Management students are multi-talented. With a specialized business focus, students can forecast company growth and talk numbers in the board room as well as solve logistical problems in business operations. This flexibility has shown greater opportunity and faster upward mobility within organizations than most other business majors.

Industrial Management students combine rigorous courses in math, science, and business to sharpen strong analytic, business and technical skills. A dedication to continually learning -- new processes, technology and skills -- is a hallmark of an Industrial Management student. Specialties range from technical management areas to science and engineering.

Many Industrial Management graduates begin their careers in corporate leadership development rotational programs, where they gain additional business and technical knowledge. Others start their careers as production supervisors, operations analysts, strategic sourcing analysts or software business analysts.

Students may choose from the following concentrations: Analytical Consulting, Computer Science, Economics, Engineering, Financial Engineering, Management Information Systems, Manufacturing and Service Operations Management, Operations & Supply Chain Management, Quantitative Methods, Statistics and Science (Biology, Chemistry, Math, Physics, and Earth, Atmospheric and Planetary Sciences).

Expired Course

Any course without a link to its description is one that has been expired. However, this course could fulfill the degree requirement historically.

Management, BS

About the Program

Management majors mean business. They effectively lead, coordinate and communicate innovative solutions in all aspects of an organization from operations to human resources. They are adaptable leaders with strong roots in analytics, complemented by solid communication skills that help them compete in the business world.

A multi-functional approach to coursework allows you to discover different business areas at the same time like finance, strategy, law and organizational behavior. You'll refine your critical thinking, communication and analytical skills as you explore these different aspects of business. Students can add concentration areas to focus on specific interests.

Graduate pursue many different job opportunities. Some begin in corporate management rotational programs, as account executives or as project managers. You will find Krannert management graduates in companies like Boeing, General Motors, Amazon.com, and Target Corporation.

Summary of Program Requirements

The Summary of Program Requirements for Management is a comprehensive list of those categories which a student must fulfill in order to earn their degree. Unlike the full Detailed Program Requirements listed below, complete lists of selectives for any given category are not shown. These summaries are intended to be printer-friendly and less expansive in detail.

Marketing, BS

About the Program

Marketing is a dynamic field which prepares students for a variety of careers ranging from brand and product management to marketing research and analytics to advertising and public relations. What makes marketing exciting is that it has both an analytical and creative aspect. A marketing career can be a good fit for students with liberal arts as well as technical backgrounds.

Marketing involves the exchange of goods or services from an organization to a customer. This process requires the organization to decide who will value what we have to offer and why targeted customers will buy from us versus our competitors. Successful product positioning requires a firm to effectively communicate its value proposition and make the product conveniently available at a competitive price. Since marketing is concerned with meeting the needs of customers at a profit, a specialization in marketing provides a good background for a variety of career paths including a start-up or a small business. Marketing also plays an important role in non-profit organizations such as museums, hospitals, and charities.

Krannert graduates in recent years have found marketing positions with firms such as Accenture, Amazon, Anheuser Busch, Beckman Coulter, Caterpillar, DISH Network, ExactTarget, Frito-Lay, IBM, Procter and Gamble, and Sears.

Strategy and Organizational Management, BS

About the Program

If managing people and leading organizations is your goal, the Strategy and Organizational Management major is your answer. Strategy and Organizational Management graduates lead change. Using strategic thinking and people skills, they manage effectively across a wide variety of organizations.

You'll study the foundations of business - accounting, economics, statistics, etc., then develop business strategy from different angles using innovative technology, organizational change and competitive strategy. You'll explore things like how to position your organization to outperform the competition, and how to recruit, develop and motivate staff to build a high performance team.

Strategy and Organizational Management graduates become business leaders. They are entrepreneurs, change leaders, internal organizational consultants, human resource managers and management consultants.

Two concentrations were specifically designed to complement the Strategy and Organizational Management major:

Global Leadership and Human Capital

Human resource management practices in organizations rely on soft skills that are critical for successful managers. Adding the Global Leadership and Human Capital concentration to your major will enhance your skills in change leadership, negotiating, and managing a global department. If you are interested in a career as a Human Resource Manager, Organizational Development/Effectiveness Director, Change Agent, or Management Consultant this concentration is a great fit.

Technology, Innovation & Entrepreneurship

A great addition if you are looking to start a new company or work on new product development and innovation teams. You'll develop a deeper knowledge of how to drive innovation in organizations, and an understanding of the relationships between strategy, technology, and innovation. Emphasis is placed on entrepreneurial activity in both new startup and established firms.

Summary of Program Requirements

The Summary of Program Requirements for Strategy and Organizational Management is a comprehensive list of those categories which a student must fulfill in order to earn their degree. Unlike the full Detailed Program Requirements listed below, complete lists of selectives for any given category are not shown. Supply Chain, Information and Analytics, BS

About the Program

Supply Chain, Information and Analytics is for problem solvers. Agile businesses rely on statistics and data analysis to make informed decisions on everything from client services to vendor management. Data is collected, stored in databases, analyzed and used to create efficiency in operations. Technical knowledge in management information systems, business analytics, supply chain and operations provides support to the business of doing business.

You've probably heard terms like supply chain, operations efficiency, big data, cloud computing, data mining and digital economy. Learn what they mean, how they work and how they affect businesses. You'll study a foundation of management courses to understand the different parts of a business. Data analytics -- including statistical analysis, data modeling and database management -- is stressed in this program. You may choose to dive deeper into one or more of these three areas: Supply Chain and Operations, Management Information Systems or Business Analytics.

Through a data-driven approach graduates are optimizing business performance as Data Analytics Managers, IT consultants, and Logistics Analysts for Accenture, IBM, Deloitte, Microsoft, General Motors and other companies.

Entrepreneurship and Innovation Certificate

Requirements

Purdue's Certificate in Entrepreneurship and Innovation Program is designed with flexibility in mind. Participating students must take the equivalent of five, 3-credit courses in the following categories:

- Two required "core" courses (6 credits)
- Two "option" courses (typically 6 credits)
- One "capstone" course or experience (typically 3 credits)

In some cases, students will be permitted to substitute an additional capstone for one of the required option courses. A grade of C- or higher is required for certificate-related courses.

Two Required Courses

The intent of required core courses is to provide students with fundamental language, knowledge, leadership and communication skills related to entrepreneurship and innovation. The content in these courses answer the questions "what is entrepreneurship" and "how do you do entrepreneurship". Required core courses are offered solely by the Certificate in Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

Click here to learn more about ENTR 20000 - Introduction To Entrepreneurship And Innovation and ENTR 31000 - Marketing And Management For New Ventures.

Option Courses

The intent of option courses is to provide students with discipline or industry/market-specific depth in areas which are relevant to entrepreneurship and/or innovation. The content of ENTR 20000 and ENTR 31000 should be relevant to these courses, and complement or enhance the learning. Option courses are offered by departments across the university as well as the Certificate in Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

Options courses should deliver knowledge and skills that accomplish one or more of the following:

- Deepen students' understanding of areas pertinent to entrepreneurship that will improve their chances of success in creating new business ventures (e.g. leadership, professional selling, new product development, technology strategy).
- Build awareness of opportunities for venture development in specific industries or markets.
- Increase students' ability to create economic or social value in an entrepreneurial way.
- Allow students to expand the markets in which they will operate (e.g. business language courses, global entrepreneurship programs).

Students can choose option courses from the approved course list found below. Click here to learn more about an option course developed by the Certificate in Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

Capstone Course or Experience

The intent of capstone courses or experiences is to provide students with hands-on, real-world entrepreneurial or innovation related experiences, which can include developing business plans for new business ventures, involvement in the product innovation and technology commercialization process, or an approved internship in an early-stage company. Capstone courses and experiential programs are offered by departments across the university as the Certificate in Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

Capstone courses or experiences should provide closure and coherence to the Certificate in Entrepreneurship and Innovation Program and include one or more of the following:

- Culminating experiences in which students are expected integrate and apply knowledge from previous ENTR and option courses.
- Launching pads for new products or new business ventures.
- Marketable experiences to prospective employers.

Skills utilized and assessed should include the ability to:

- Work constructively in groups and on teams.
- Understand theories and perspectives of the discipline.
- Identify and assess opportunities.
- Use library and other resources to perform research.
- Evaluate critically what is read and heard.
- Demonstrate high order thinking.
- Make reasoned decisions.
- Communicate persuasively.

Possible capstones include:

- Involvement in launching your own venture through the Entrepreneurship Capstone course (ENTR 48000). [Prerequisites: ENTR 20000 and ENTR 31000]
- Consulting for Emerging Enterprises through the Entrepreneurship Capstone course. (ENTR 48000 *special section/instructor approval required). [Prerequisites: ENTR 20000 and ENTR 31000]
- Internships through the Interns for Indiana Program.
- Global Entrepreneurship study-abroad program organized and led by Certificate Program faculty and staff (SA 10705).

Students can choose capstone courses from the approved course list found below. Click here to learn more about capstone courses offered by the Certificate in Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

Program Requirements

Students must take the equivalent of five courses in the following categories:

Two Required Core Courses (6 credits)

- ENTR 20000 - Introduction To Entrepreneurship And Innovation
- ENTR 31000 - Marketing And Management For New Ventures (formerly ENTR 20100)

Two Option Courses (typically 6 credits)

Option courses provide depth in specific disciplines or industries relevant to entrepreneurship and innovation.

Courses designated "OPEN" on the approved list are available to all certificate program students, where space permits and pre-requisites have been met.

One Capstone Course or Experience (typically 3 credits)

Capstones are designed to provide hands-on, real-world experience to students. This can include courses or participation in the Interns for Indiana/ Interns for Entrepreneurship Program

Students will be permitted to substitute an additional capstone for one of the required option courses.

The Process

To enter the Program students should enroll in ENTR 20000. Those interested in receiving the Certificate will fill out a Completion Plan when enrolled in ENTR 31000.

Grade of C- or higher must be obtained in all courses used toward Certificate Completion.
